'Real daughters' recognized

By HAZEL LEE MARTIN

It is most unusual to find four living daughters of a veteran of the War Between the States. However, this may be accounted for in view of the fact that the Honorable, and Faithful Confederate Soldier, Chaney Commodore Ferguson was the father of 25 children.

We recently visited in the home of two of the daughters of Soldier Ferguson, Mrs. Bertha Almond who lives near Spout Springs with her daughter, Irene Almond, and Mrs. Nettie McCormick who lives alone in her home in the town of Appomattox. They are charming Real-Daughters of the Confederacy, and tried very hard to remember some of the incidents regarding their father's experiences in the war. However, as Mrs. Almond related to us, they were always busy around their home, and did not get much time to sit and reminiscence.

Private Ferguson wore his uniform home at the end of the war, but was not among those who surrendered at Appomattox Court House. During his service he was captured on Roanoke Island. Private Ferguson's discharge papers stated that he served in the War Between the States from 1861 through 1865, in Company B, 2nd. Regiment, 46th Virginia Wise's Legion of the Virginia Infantry.

Soldier Ferguson lived to be 99 years of age and married twice, his first wife was Sidnor Ferguson, and his second wife was Nannie Harris. There were 12 children now living. He lived and raised his family in the Vera neighborhood where his son Hopkins now resides. Another son, Dewey lives in Lynchburg.

The living Real-Daughters of the Confederacy are Mrs. Almond, Mrs. McCormick, and Mrs. Hattie McFadden who live in Appomattox, and Mrs. Minnie Martin of Lynchburg. The Appomattox Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy recognizes these ladies as having contributed much to our county and our Southern heritage. Mrs. Almond, who married the late Henry C. Almond are the parents of 2 boys, and 4 girls, Mrs. Virginia Smith, Mrs. Margaret Martin, Dewey Almond (killed in service 1944), Irene Almond, Mrs. Alice Mayhew and Twyman Almond. Mrs. Martin married the late Floyd Martin and have one daughter - Vernell Martin. Mrs. McCormick who married the late Willie McCormick are the parents of 8 children, Mrs. Louise Goding, Mott McCormick, Mrs. Lorene Guill, Mrs. Mattie Martin, Crafton McCormick (deceased), Mrs. Helen Scott, Elwood McCormick and Charles McCormick. Mrs. Hattie McFadden was married to the late Charlie McFadden.
